Event description : This kick-off meeting marks the launch of the Unite! thematic community on Living Labs : a network of researchers and administrators across Unite! partner universities working with real-world research environments.

This first meeting will bring together Living Labs representatives from across the Unite! alliance to share their work, explore common challenges around data sharing, and lay the foundations for future collaboration, such as joint participation in European projects.

Whether you are already part of a Living Lab or interested in connecting your research to one, you are welcome to join.
